

Planning for Superannuation

Objectives

Superannuation is second innings of one's life. Enjoying this phase comfortably and peacefully requires certain basics of retirement planning. It helps participants to become better prepared to pursue the life that all have planned to live when one actually superannuates. Executives need meticulous planning to transform one's attitude to adapt oneself with changed circumstances. This requires financial planning for sustainable income to keep the standard of living along with opportunity to engage oneself in activities that offer fulfillment.
